Bluehaven Analytics — Employee Policy

Version 1.2 | Effective date: 1 March 2026

This fictional policy document was created for API testing. The organization and policy details are invented.

Learning and Development

Each full-time employee receives an annual learning budget of EUR 800. Part-time employees working at least 20 hours per week receive EUR 400 per year. The budget may be used for approved courses, professional certifications, and work-related books.

Approval Process

Employees must submit a learning request to their line manager at least ten business days before a course begins. Expenses above EUR 500 also require approval from the department director. Reimbursement claims must include an itemized receipt and proof of attendance.

Business Travel

Employees should book standard-class rail tickets for journeys under four hours when a practical rail connection is available. Hotel costs should normally remain below EUR 160 per night, excluding taxes. Exceptions require written approval from the department director before booking.

Expense Submission

Travel expenses must be submitted within 15 calendar days after the trip ends. The finance team aims to process complete claims within seven business days.

Remote Work Equipment

Eligible employees may request one monitor and one keyboard for their home workspace. Equipment remains the property of Bluehaven Analytics and must be returned when employment ends. The standard equipment budget is EUR 350 per employee.

Contacts

Questions about learning budgets should be sent to People Operations. Travel and reimbursement questions should be sent to Finance. This policy does not specify the name of a chief financial officer.
